Stick around.

One of the best things about growing up in this area is that you never have to leave it. Because its economy is growing by leaps and bounds, producing new job opportunities in both business and agriculture. Too, you'll find technical and higher education facilities second to none. So, come graduation time, stick around. You won't find a better place to live, work and play.

Welcome to

Clemson

We are most pleased to have you as guests today on the beautiful, spacious, and expanding campus of Clemson University.

Here you will find a dynamic university hard at work on our nation's most vital tasks: the formal education of our young men and women; conducting a very complex multi-million-dollar research program; and directing the many programs of public service activities which are a part of this land-grant university.

To insure its ability to meet its mission and the ever increasing demands placed upon it, Clemson University has, in little more than a decade, added more than $45 million of teaching and research facilities. The academic qualifications of the Clemson student have been significantly up-graded by the adoption of a selective admission policy. And too, the quality of Clemson faculty and teaching has greatly improved even though the number of faculty has doubled in size the past 10 years.

These essential developments, together with a program of constantly up-dating all curricula and the dramatic expansion of the graduate program, have given Clemson University a position of great academic respect throughout the nation.

A bit over 100 years ago this property was the estate of John C. Calhoun, one of the great statesmen of his era. Just over 75 years ago his son-in-law, Thomas Green Clemson, willed the estate to the state of South Carolina for the establishment of "a technical institution." A graduate of Clemson's first class (1896), Dr. B. Rhett Turnipseed, still lives at Statesville, N. C.

Today Fort Hill, the Calhoun and Clemson home, stands preserved in the center of the campus. Less than a mile away, on the site of Mr. Clemson's stable boy's cabin, is the new multi-million-dollar Robert Muldrow Cooper Library, the academic focal point of the university. The new building under construction adjacent to this beautiful stadium is the J. C. Littlejohn Coliseum. Other new facilities, representing a total cost in excess of $10 million, are either under construction or will be before the end of the year.

We urge you this weekend—or anytime—to visit the academic and research activities that surround you here. We are confident you will be amazed by and proud of the scope and excellence of Clemson University.

And may you return often.

HEY... look us over

Academic and physical development have become an exciting way of life for Clemson University, where the campus is being rapidly transformed by a vigorous, $50-million building program. The expansion is aimed toward the mid 1970's when Clemson's student body is expected to reach 10,000.

Construction stretches from the shadows of the towering, new high-rise residence hall on East Campus to the red earth across from Death Valley where the J. C. Littlejohn Coliseum is taking shape.

Other projects either now under construction or scheduled to begin soon are a second high-rise dormitory, an additional dining hall, a new student health center, a classroom and faculty complex for arts and sciences, and a graduate engineering research laboratory.

While visiting our campus today we invite you to become a sidewalk superintendent. Look us over. We think you will be proud of our dynamic growth. We are.

Frank Howard, Athletic Director and Head Football Coach

150th Outshines 100th . . .

The 13-12 loss to Georgia Tech last year was the 100th for Coach Frank Howard in his coaching career, but overshadowing this was his 150th triumph.

This came against Maryland, 14-10, in the eighth game of the season. Howard is now one of five active coaches in the nation to achieve this plateau, and according to his standards, "it's a lot harder to win 100 than it is to lose 'em."

But he is all by himself for having the longest tenure of any coach. He is now in his 28th year at one institution, and only one other coach (Warren Woodson at New Mexico State) has more coaching years than Howard.

Last year Howard saw his Tigers win their fourth Atlantic Coast Conference title and he was named ACC coach-of-the-year. In the ACC's 13-year history, Clemson has an 82-56-2 overall record and 53-36-1 with league teams.

The Century Club . . .

Thirteen coaches who are at major football institutions (as classified by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau) have now won 100 or more games in their careers. The "Century Club" saw two members enter last year and four retire. Coach Frank Howard is second-ranked for the most years as a head coach (behind Warren Woodson of New Mexico State). However, Howard has the longest tenure in the nation, now in his 28th year at Clemson. Howard ranks fifth in the nation for the most wins and is one of five who has won over 150 games. Listed below are the current "Century Club" members:

It's Different Here

Are college football games everywhere pretty much the same?—the crowds?—the bands?—the cheers? Sure there's a similarity—but it's different here. Each game has its own distinctive flavor—spirit—tradition. So it is with uniforms we manufacture. Into them go many intangibles of experience and skill. This is why an increasing number of Units are scoring with "Uniforms of Distinction" by

The Alabama Series

Alabama comes to Clemson for the first time today, and it will be only the second time during the 10-game series that the Tigers have had the Tide on Palmetto soil.

The first two games (1900 & 1904) were played in Birmingham. Then in 1905 the two clubs met in Columbia. It was back to Birmingham for the 1909 contest and in 1913 and 1931 two additional sites were picked—Tuscaloosa and Montgomery.

The last four games (1934-35-36-66) have all been played in Tuscaloosa. And so the land of red hills and cotton greet a 'Bama team today that was jolted with a 37-37 tie by Florida State to open the season and handed its first loss since 1965 last Saturday by an aroused Tennessee team before 72,000 in Birmingham's Legion Field.

Not since Georgia dealt a controversial 18-17 loss in the opening game in '65 had an Alabama team under Paul "Bear" Bryant tasted defeat, although there had been two ties involved (7-7 by Tennessee in '65 and the FSU deadlock).

An oddity in the Clemson-Alabama series is that with the exception of one game, one team has shut the other one out. The only one that didn't hold true to form was in 1931 when Clemson was dealt its greatest margin of defeat.

This was Coach Jess Neely's first year on the Clemson scene as well as for Frank Thomas at Alabama. The Tide was to go 9-1-0 that year and score 370 points while holding the opposition to 57. Seventy-four of those points were against the Tigers in Cramton Bowl in Montgomery. Clemson scored once.

Clemson's only three wins came in the first trio of games when John Heisman was carrying the Tigers high. But in seven games since, Clemson has scored only seven points while giving up 228.

Both Coaches Frank Howard and Bryant played their collegiate football at Alabama, but today will be only the third time they've met on opposite sides of the field. Once was last year at Denny Stadium in Tuscaloosa when the Tide won 26-0. The other was in 1952 when Bryant was at Kentucky and the Wildcats won, 27-14.

Bryant and Howard are two of five active coaches in the nation who have won over 150 games in their careers. Bryant now has 174, Howard 153. Today will be the 271st game for Howard as head coach and the 242nd for Bryant. Two old pros who have given their lives to football.

Meanwhile, on Other Saturdays...

by CHARLES GILLESPIE

Sports Columnist, The Commercial-Appeal, Memphis, Tenn.

THE STADIUM at Southwestern College of Memphis, Tenn., is almost invisible from the streets that surround it; quiet avenues in the same neighborhood that includes the zoo, the Doughboy monument, the city's largest park and a shaded, gracefully aging residential section.

There are no traffic jams—a not unusual phenomena where there is no traffic—when Southwestern plays a football game. The stadium—neat, small, undistinguished—dozes in a remote corner of the pastoral campus. On a Saturday afternoon with the team engaged in dramatic conflict with an ancient rival you may expect to see a scholarly-looking sort strolling beyond the shadows of the grandstand; seeking solitude and finding it.

Although Southwestern is not even a perennial power in the College Athletic Conference, its alumni do not look askance at that situation. They would be surprised to learn an outsider was aware of the school, startled to know he had heard of the CAC, an alliance of mostly Southern liberal arts colleges with a common background of the bygone glamour and contemporary ideals.

At one time the Southwestern coach was Jess Neely and the Lynxcats played Ole Miss and Vanderbilt and others of that ilk and stature. Boss Crump supported a measure to construct a large stadium to support the Southwestern ambitions and players like "Chicken" High and Gaylon Smith were accorded the publicity of latter-day Sinkwiches, Trippis and Namaths.

High, a 120-pounder who played for a Neely team in the 1920's, was considered the nonpareil among punt returners and broken field runners of his day. He scored two touchdowns against Alabama one noteworthy afternoon. Smith, a large back of the classic mold, later played with the Cleveland Rams and the Cleveland Browns. Frank Thomas called him "the best halfback I ever saw."

Other CAC members have known the feeling of national devotion; their names even today provoke an instant of recognition. There is, for example, the legend of Centre College: Bo McMillin and the other Prayin' Colonels, an unlikely band of Texans and Kentuckians who defeated mighty Harvard on that 1921 afternoon in Massachusetts. Harvard had not lost an intersectional game in 44 years (years not games) before that splendid, shocking date.

In 1899, Sewanee, another CAC member, launched an extraordinary odyssey, five games in six days against opponents from Texas to North Carolina, entering forever into the folders of collectors of Americana, would-you-believe cartoons and miscellaneous artifact dispensers.

As late as 1940, Sewanee was still a member of the Southeastern Conference, one season defeating Mississippi State after the Mississippi State coach, Chris Cagle, preparing for a bigger game the following week end, said he did not plan to "use anything" against Sewanee and lived up to his word come hell and enormous chagrin.

Washington and Lee, another CAC school, is surrounded not so much by legend of past deeds as by the sound of the Washington and Lee Swing, one of the most popular of all the autumn's marches, a tune long ago appropriated by universities who maintain football rosters almost as large as the Washington and Lee enrollment.

Nevertheless there is a special flavor, a distinction, to a CAC game. Many players wear spectacles. Some are too fat and others too lean. There are, naturally, excellent athletes among the lot, players who could bear up quite nicely in the hurricane and sweatstorms of major college football. They are using the same Saturdays that Notre Dame and Michigan State and Southern California are using.

If a spectator can shake off the habit of the organized, synchronized, musically - accompanied spectacles that surround major games, he can find a rare excitement in a CAC contest, an antique charm in the surroundings, perhaps even an antique charm in the execution: Southwestern upset Centre last season when the Centre center twice crossed up the Centre punter, once snapping the ball over his head and later dribbling it back, wobbling grotesquely on the ground.

At Southwestern the uniform of the pep band is no uniform at all save a few unmatched scraps that appear as though they might have been recovered in the path of Napoleon's armies retreating from Moscow. The team physician may fall asleep in the sun between halves. Small dogs wander, not cross the field, but in the grandstand, lapping up unguarded soft drinks and arrogantly ignoring prospects of affection. The downs marker, standing in the midst of the opposing team, will jump about enthusiastically cheering for the Lynxcats.

Jack Farris, a novelist and Southwestern professor who was an athlete (scholarshipped) at Ouachita College and a student during the Yost era at Michigan, is a follower of the Southwestern team, typical if the image includes an advanced intellect and a bristly mustache.

Farris does not regard the pulverizing licks common to the Big Ten or the Southeastern Conference or the Texas high schools as necessary for an exciting football game. "We beat Principia here one year in the last three minutes, 28 to 24 I think it was, and that was one of the most exciting games I've ever seen. I've seen Big Ten teams, great teams, play terribly dull games. I used to think that after you'd watched the big teams for a long time you could never enjoy football on this level, but that isn't true. This is like a picnic and in the past few years I've learned to enjoy this more than any other kind of football."

Meanwhile some latter-day McMillin is even now preparing once again to rescue his school from obscurity.

Fair Harvard be forewarned.

Death Valley Record . . .

In the past 25 seasons, 22 teams have made appearances in Clemson Memorial Stadium, now pretty widely known as "Death Valley." Only three teams (George Washington, Villanova and Maryland) have an edge on the Tigers' home ground and two of these (GW and Villanova) have just played one game in Memorial Stadium. Fareground: Chevelle SS 396. Camara SS, top right. Corvette Sting Ray, top left.

Our Sports Department

A look of bold innovation and the feel of competitive excitement set Chevrolet sport models apart from the pack for '68.

Revolutionary styling.

Looking like a dream car come to life, the '68 Corvette Sting Ray is an astonishingly beautiful new sports car. It's nearly seven inches longer and two inches lower. Startling new features include Hide-A-Way windshield wipers concealed beneath a power-operated cowl panel, rear deck spoiler, high-backed bucket seats and push-type door opening buttons.

Great performers, too.

Quieter and smoother riding this year, Chevelle and Camaro,

"The Hugger," offer new sports car-type performance—better handling, big engines. Camaro SS has a bulging striped hood that covers your choice of either a 350- or 396-cubic-inch V8. Chevelle SS 396 for '68 has completely new styling, a wider tread, shorter wheelbase, and a twin-domed hood.

More engine efficiency.

Standard on many models with automatic transmission is an ingenious carburetor heater that gives you increased efficiency in cold weather. Standard, also, is a new GM exhaust emission control.

New ventilation system.

Astro Ventilation, a brand-new system of bringing in outside air, comes on Corvette, Camaro and the Caprice Coupe, and is available on many other models.

Proved safety features.

All Chevrolet safety features are continued and you get many new ones such as energy-absorbing front seat backs and side marker lights for '68. Be smart. Be sure. Buy now at your Chevrolet dealer's.
